

Tutors for Physics and Astronomy

Fall 2018

Private Tutors

As a service to students, the Physics and Astronomy Department provides a list of advanced students who have indicated an interest in tutoring. Being on this list does not imply that the tutor will be available, or how much they will charge, or even their fitness for the job. It certainly does not imply any official Department sanction. Cost and other details are negotiated between student and tutor. In addition to the classes listed, some are willing to tutor higher-level physics and astronomy courses, and intro math and chemistry classes. They are presented in no particular order.
